The beautiful islands of Germany are a fascinating destination to visit. The coast of Germany is often called the most scenic of Europe, and there are many islands of special interest, from the numerous beaches in the Rügen in the north to the turquoise-blue sea of the Jade Bay. These photos bring you to an island on Germany's largest Baltic Sea island, Rügen, as well as some on the River Elbe, the Kiel Canal, the beautiful islands of Schleswig-Holstein, the Nordstrand beaches and the Jade Bay. Description: The jewel of the North Sea is Germany's second largest island, Schleswig-Holstein. It is located at the most northerly point of mainland Europe. After the unification of Germany in 1990, the northern area of this land became a state, which included the island. Besides the capital Kiel and Schleswig-Holstein (both in the state of Schleswig-Holstein), several major cities and towns can be found there. Schleswig-Holstein's wealth comes from its nature and history. This is a state which unites history with nature, the cultural heritage of the region with the coast and its maritime tradition, and the beaches of North Sea, Gulf of Finland and Baltic Sea. Here you can discover the coasts and islands of Germany's northernmost state with its capital, the lovely islands of Sweden, the coast of Denmark, and many other picturesque locations. Description: The beautiful, deep and crystal-clear waters of the Jade Bay can be found in North Germany's northernmost state of Schleswig-Holstein. The Jade Bay at the Baltic Sea is located in the Nordstrand region and is an enormous bay that is bordered by the district of Schleswig, the district of Wismar, the province of Schleswig-Holstein and the district of Stormarn. The Jade Bay, like the Nordstrand, is a characteristic part of Germany's north. It is a romantic location with a wealth of water, sand, shingle beaches, bars and cafes and for tourists and water lovers, it is simply a paradise. The Jade Bay boasts some of the most beautiful, unique and diverse natural phenomena. The beach is especially well-suited to swimmers and surfers. Here, visitors can enjoy the sea, visit the Jade Bay Museum, look for shells, discover small wooden bridges
