Victoria, Australia The Perangwon Tea Plantation's onsite tea garden was established in 1857 in the early days of Federation (in 1863). The tea garden was originally divided into 24 crops, each of which consisted of around 2500 tea plants. The Perangwon Tea Plantation was based around Western Victoria's scenic Wimmera region, and particularly around the historic town of Hamilton, where the British Government first set up its tea plantations, located at the northern end of Victoria's Blackwood River. The Perangwon Tea Plantation has since been expanded to encompass over 10,000 tea plants. The plantation has been planted on the family's 150 acres of ancient bushland. Today, the Perangwon family has planted around 2,200 tea plants on their 5,000 acre bushland estate. The plantation's current garden encompasses a specialised selection of tea species that has been carefully hand selected and planted over the years. This collection of tea plants was especially collected as part of the Perangwon family's 350 year family history. The Perangwon family's history has continued to the present day. All of the Perangwon's tea plants are planted in the original family gardens. Today, the Perangwon family has planted around 2,200 tea plants on their 5,000 acre bushland estate.
